

Yummy: 8 of the Most Delicious Farm-to-Table Hotels in the World

Move over, farm-to-table restaurants — at some hotels around the world you can now get the whole enchilada under one roof. From coastal Cabo, Mexico, to the rustic countryside of Florence, Italy, and some surprising urban inlets like Milwaukee, here are the eight best around the world. For locavores who crave just-plucked-off-the-vine heirloom tomatoes or leafy greens growing in the backyard of their accommodations, it's a foodie dream.

The adventure kitchen where guests can learn how to prepare food. (Photo: Carmel Valley Ranch)

Carmel Valley Ranch, Carmel, Calif.

A brand-new hen house (home to Rhode Island Red and Barred Plymouth Rock chickens) joins Carmel Valley Ranch's other foodie features including Italian honeybees, Monterey Bay sea salt, a two-acre organic garden and a Pinot Noir vineyard. Dine on the goods at the Lodge restaurant, the River Ranch Café, or the Clubhouse and learn more at events like a "chicken chat," bee tutorial, interactive gardening class or "ask the farmer."

Cost: From $300